MRS. GAVELIN LAID TO REST

Mrs. Tekla Josepha Gavelin passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. W. Harold Pinkney on Friday night just after ten o'clock, at the age of practically seventy-six years, following a lengthy illness.

Born in Viska, Sweden, December the 17th, 1858, deceased came with her husband and family to Canada in the year 1907, taking up residence at Merritt, B.C.; later, in 1918, coming to Blairmore, following the death of her husband.

Mrs. Gavelin was fairly well known in this district, being of a most lovely disposition and possessed of the true Christian spirit.

She was born in Viska, Sweden, December the 17th, 1858, and came to Canada with her husband and family in the year 1907. After a few months residence at Bankhead, Alberta, the family moved to Merritt, B.C., where she resided till after the death of her husband in 1918, when she came to Blairmore to make her home with her son Fred. After coming here, she raised her grandson, Eric Hornquist, who was orphaned by the flu. A daughter, Mrs. E. Hornquist, of Edmonton, predeceased her in 1913; her husband in June, 1918; a son, Albert, in November, 1918; and Eric, the eldest son, in 1924. She leaves to mourn her, one son and two daughters, Fred and Mrs. Pinkney, of Blairmore and Mrs. John Backman, of Lower Nicola, B.C.; and grandchildren, Eric Hornquist, of Kimberley, and Alice Hornquist, of Blairmore.

Funeral took place from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney on Tuesday afternoon, and following service at the United church, conducted by Rev. A. E. Larke, interment was made in the Blairmore cemetery. At the service at the church, an appropriate solo was rendered by Mrs. Larke. Pallbearers were Fred Lund and T. Haggland, of Lethbridge; E. Haggland, of Waterton Lakes; W. G. Pearson, Carl Anderson and Robert Oakes, of Blairmore.

Floral tributes were from the following: The Family (Gates Ajar), staff of F. M. Thompson Co., Mrs. B. Tiberg and sons, Mr. and Mrs. J. McPhail and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. COWLEY MAN'S SONG HEARD OVER THE RADIO

COWLEY—The broadcasting station KNX of Hollywood played a delightful selection last Monday evening entitled "Star of Love," the words of which were written by A. J. Snyder, of Cowley. A number of friends were pleased to receive complimentary copies of the song from Mr. Snyder, and those who listened to the beautiful tenor voice that sang the selection are congratulating the author on the charming ballad that was so well set to music.

"CAMPUS CO-ED" AT COLEMAN

A rollicking musical comedy to be staged at Coleman Community hall, Monday and Tuesday, "Campus Co-Ed," has numerous highly amusing situations, and is minus a dull moment.

Under the direction of Jean F. Wallace of the Producers Guild, Chicago, a talented cast and choruses of local people have been specially trained to present one of the most entertaining musical plays seen for years in this district. Sponsored by a committee of St. Albans' church, it is looked on as the biggest entertainment feature of this winter's concert season.

Song hits include "Silver Moon," "Alma Mater," "Row! Row!" "For Old Millford," "That Little Brown," "I'm Painting My Blackbirds Blue," "Never Trouble, Trouble," "It's A Unnecessary Evil," "Mickey Mouse."

Floral tributes were from the following: The Family (Gates Ajar), staff of F. M. Thompson Co., Mrs. B. Tiberg and sons, Mr. and Mrs. J. McPhail and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. The world's largest bridge, which is to span San Francisco Bay and connect the great cities of San Francisco and Oakland, is beginning to take shape above the water. It will cost $77,000,000 and is expected to be completed early in 1937. The bridge will be eight and one quarter miles long—from the end of the western approach to the end of the eastern approach. The bridge proper, including the island crossing, will be 23,000 feet long or approximately 4½ miles. It will be a double-deck structure, 58 feet wide.

MRS JOHN CARNEY PASSES

Another pioneer of the district, in the person of Mrs. John Carney, passed away at her home in Bellevue on Friday morning last, at the ripe age of 77 years.

Mrs. Carney had been ill but a few days. At first it was thought she was not seriously ill, but complications set in and she lost ground rapidly till the final spark fled.

She had been a resident of Bellevue for quite a number of years, moving here from Cowley.

She leaves to mourn her husband, and several children, including John, of Kimberley, two sons in the Cowley district, one in California, and Mrs. William Patterson, of Blairmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Carney came from Ontario to the Cowley district before the arrival of the railway.

Funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from the residence in Bellevue to Blairmore, where service was conducted in St. Luke's church by Rev. A. S. Partington, and the remains were laid to rest in the Blairmore cemetery. The Crows' Nest Undertaking Co. were in charge of arrangements.

REMAINS OF HARRY INSTONE LAID TO REST, HILLCREST

Funeral of the late Harry Instone, who passed away suddenly last week, were held at Hillcrest on Sunday afternoon, and very largely attended.

The beautiful and impressive last rites of the Knights of Pythias order, and of the United church, were held in the K.P. hall, which was packed to overflowing with sympathizing friends of the departed.

Officers of Turtle Mountain Lodge surrounded the casket and conducted their service, followed by the service of the United church by Rev. John Wood, and funeral oration by Rev. Ray Taylor, of Coleman.

The large platform, as well as the casket were heavily bedecked with beautiful floral tributes.

In the words of Rev. Taylor, "Hillcrest Pythians have lost a valued and faithful member and the village a department store window without citizen of the highest order." In all looking in,

Should Take Precautions

From Kansas Comes A Warning About "The Twin Perils" To Farm Children

In a letter just received from Independence, Kansas, Mr. A. Z. Potter says that having been raised on a farm he has first hand knowledge of the sad death of a good many children caused by the carelessness of their elders. Every parent should take heed to this warning offered in a friendly spirit by our correspondent from Kansas. Here it is:

"The twin perils for children living on farms and in small villages are open wells and cisterns and loose boards left with nail points sticking out of them."

"Cover all wells and cisterns securely and draw all nails from loose boards because a child stepping on them, whether clean or rusted, is in deadly danger from the germs of Tetanus (lockjaw) with which much ground is infected."

SIR HERBERT S. HOLT

Who has resigned as President of the Royal Bank of Canada and becomes chairman of the executive committee.

Retires From Presidency Of The Royal Bank

Sir Herbert S. Holt Is Succeeded By Morris W. Wilson As President And Managing Director

After 26 years in office, Sir Herbert S. Holt has relinquished the presidency of the Royal Bank of Canada and now becomes Chairman of the Board and Chairman of the Executive Committee. He is succeeded by Morris W. Wilson as President and Managing Director. Mr. G. Dobson follows Mr. Wilson as General Manager.

These changes were announced at the end of the bank's fiscal year, following the regular meeting of the board. They are changes which constitute not only an important milestone in the 65 years of Royal Bank history, but also a significant reinforcement. Sir Herbert Holt's retirement from the presidency marks the withdrawal from active duty of an outstanding Canadian banker who is leaving the Royal Bank.

He has developed from a relatively small organization to its present status as one of the great financial institutions of the world. This is due to the appointment of Morris W. Wilson. Sir Herbert Holt's first occasion this office has been attained by a man from within the ranks of the bank.

In his new position as Chairman of the Board, Sir Herbert Holt will continue a connection with the Royal Bank which began nearly thirty years ago with his election as director in February, 1905. He was appointed vice-president of the bank two years later, and became its president on November 16, 1908.

Black rough woolen is another very smart scheme with the dress bodice of black metal threaded crepe. Style No. 6320 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of black material with 1½ yards of 38-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern 20 cents in stamp or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

MORRIS W. WILSON

Formerly General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada who succeeds Sir Herbert Holt as President.

The Royal Bank has been in existence for sixty-five years. It was incorporated in Halifax in 1869 as The Merchants Bank of Halifax; its present name being adopted in 1901, and it was merged with the Bank of Montreal in 1907, the year in which Sir Herbert became vice-president.

When he was appointed president in the following year the Royal Bank was recognized as being soundly established upon long adherence to the conservative principles of its inception. It was not, however, until 1914 that Sir Herbert became active.

It was at this time under Sir Herbert's direction that the bank entered a new period of steady growth which gradually made it one of the leading banking institutions in the west.

In 1918, when Sir Herbert became president, the Royal Bank had 107 branch offices to-day it has nearly 800 branches located in twenty-four foreign countries. Its assets during the same period have increased from less than $50,000,000 to more than $725,000,000, the number of its shareholders from 800 to a present total of 12,000.

Sir Herbert's policy has been one of steady and constant enterprise, consistent with sound banking practice, and based upon the dependence upon development of an active and highly trained personnel. He has always emphasized the importance of providing opportunity for new ability, and the Royal Bank has been notable for the development of young men such as C. S. Tompkins, Inspector General of Banks, a position created by the Federal Government in 1903, and Graham F. Trotter, the recently appointed Governor of the new Central Bank.

It is understood that Sir Herbert's retirement from the presidency now, at the age of seventy-eight, is due partly to his desire to have more leisure for periods abroad, but principally to his policy of gradually transferring his direct responsibilities to younger shoulders.

Morris W. Wilson, the new President and Managing Director of the Royal Bank, was formerly Vice-President and General Manager. He is fifty-one years old, the age at which Sir Herbert became president. He was born in Amherstburg, Nova Scotia, where he entered the service of the bank. His entire business career has been with the bank, and the three years he has been with it have been marked by a series of promotions through which he has acquired experience in every phase of bank activity.

In 1918, when he was twenty-six, Mr. Wilson was moved from the Maritimes to Vancouver, where he became manager of the main office two years later. In 1918 he was transferred to head office as Vice-President and Chief Inspector. The following year, and in 1922 was appointed Superintendent of Branches, and in 1926 was promoted to General Manager. He was promoted to General Manager in 1931, became Vice-President as well. Each of his predecessors as president had been like him a banker of high standing, of fine reputation, of great influence in industry or commerce. He is thus the first professional banker to become president of the bank.

"The Lord in the night in which we were gathered together broke bread which he had given thanks for, break it," said Mr. Wilson. "With the Greek word for thanks, eucharistearus, comes our word Eucharist. The bread was unleavened and擘饼 (break bread), the bread of the Passover feast which Jesus and his disciples had been eating. It was in the form of hard, flat, round cakes, which were always broken never cut. Because it was擘饼 (break) the pieces of bread, the sacrament is sometimes called The Breaking of Bread."

"And said, This is my body, which is yours. This represents my body, it means. The disciples clearly understood the metaphor. The connection between Christ and us shall be of vital importance, and that assimilation of the food we eat is not too strong a figure to express it. The food we eat becomes our blood and flesh; it becomes our life, our self. And this life is our soul. Sydney G. Dobson said, 'This is my body.'

Sydney G. Dobson, who has been Senior Assistant General Manager who will succeed Mr. Wilson as General Manager, has had a similar career. Like Mr. Wilson he was born in the Maritimes, at Sydney, Cape Breton, and is fifty-one years old. He started in the bank as a boy clerk in his home town thirty-four years ago, becoming accountant at Winnipeg in 1906. After serving in various other positions he was appointed manager of Sydney Bank in 1910 at the age of 27. Five years later he became Assistant Manager in Montreal, and in 1918 he was transferred to Vancouver to succeed Mr. Wilson as manager. In 1918 he became Acting Supervisor of Middle West Branches, with headquarters at Winnipeg, and in 1922 was promoted to General Manager at that time. He became Assistant General Manager three years later, and occupied this position for the last twelve years.

Thus do, as often as we drink it, in remembrance of me."

Taking the cup, Jesus said, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood. This do in remembrance of me, that what violent one to us, to the people to whom it was spoken it could have offered no difficulty whatever. Even as it was their time-honored practice for life: drink it all. And this life is our soul. If it is not our talking at it and admiring its nutritive properties, but only by eating it. And whatever process can make Christ eat it, and help us to assimilate all that is in him, in this process we are to use."

THE CHRISTIAN AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

Golden text: "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink the cup, ye do show the Lord's body till he come." 1 Corinthians 11:23-24.

Devotional reading: Matthew 26: 20-28.

Explanations And Comments

Paul's Account of the Instituting of the Lord's Supper, verse 22-25.

"For I delivered unto you what I received of the Lord, that even as I delivered unto you; with these words Paul prefaches in his letter to the Corinthians his account of the institution of the Lord's Supper. By these words he refers to the spiritual meaning of the rite as coming home to him when he had received it from Christ. Paul's words spoken by Christ himself are the most important words in the church founded even as these followers of Christ had reported them to him.

"The Lord in the night in which we were gathered together broke bread which he had given thanks for, break it," said Mr. Wilson. "With the Greek word for thanks, eucharistearus, comes our word Eucharist. The bread was unleavened and擘饼 (break bread), the bread of the Passover feast which Jesus and his disciples had been eating. It was in the form of hard, flat, round cakes, which were always broken never cut. Because it was擘饼 (break) the pieces of bread, the sacrament is sometimes called The Breaking of Bread."

"And said, This is my body, which is yours. This represents my body, it means. The disciples clearly understood the metaphor. The connection between Christ and us shall be of vital importance, and that assimilation of the food we eat is not too strong a figure to express it. The food we eat becomes our blood and flesh; it becomes our life, our self. And this life is our soul. If it is not our talking at it and admiring its nutritive properties, but only by eating it. And whatever process can make Christ eat it, and help us to assimilate all that is in him, in this process we are to use."

Thus shall we drink it? By other means, I take it, than we drink in other spiritual things—by reading, by study, by thought, by imitation, by example, by imitation of Sydney G. Dobson.

"This do, as often as we drink it, in remembrance of me."

Taking the cup, Jesus said, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood. This do in remembrance of me, that what violent one to us, to the people to whom it was spoken it could have offered no difficulty whatever. Even as it was their time-honored practice for life: drink it all. And this life is our soul. If it is not our talking at it and admiring its nutritive properties, but only by eating it. And whatever process can make Christ eat it, and help us to assimilate all that is in him, in this process we are to use."

End Of Great Navy

Last Of Great German Battleships Being Broken Up

While the naval discussions in London are seemingly futile in regard to limitation, the end of what was once the second most powerful navy afloat is being encompassed at the former British naval dockyard known as Rosyth, just beyond the Forth bridge. There the warlike German navy is being dissected and broken up under the melting qualities of acetylene torches and the hammer blows of hydraulic tools.

When the Germans by pre-arranged signal scuttled their surrendered fleet at Scapa Flow they thought that was the end of their navy. Probably they thought the job of raising an entire navy was too big to be attempted. The 12 battle cruisers and 100 destroyers were valued at about $300,000,000. But the salvaging job was done, although it took four years to do it.

And now at Rosyth these former German battleships are being beaten into plowshares. Several hundred thousand tons of steel, iron, brass and bronze are being cut out of them until there is nothing left resembling a ship. The common grades of steel are sold to industries that make rails, which are being shipped all over the world. Much of the better grade is being bought by automobile manufacturers. The highest grade of all, which was armoured, turrets, goes to toolmakers, shipbuilders and engine makers. Some of it, in fact, has been resold to Germany, where it may even reappear in the recreated pocket battleships. Braces go to clockmakers, instrument makers and various other industries. The bronze from the heavy propellers and gun fittings is sold to other propeller makers, bell makers and other users of bronze.

Mandate Against Queues

Chinese Police Given Authority To Enforce Order

The recent order issued by Nanjing that the wearing of queues and the custom of binding the feet of girl children must be discontinued immediately has been literally taken to heart by the authorities of Taian, in Shantung province, according to telegrams received in Shanghai from missionaries stationed in that region.

All police officers, especially those stationed at the gates of the city have been armed with shears and orders have been issued to the effect that if the mandate against the wearing of queues is not voluntarily obeyed, the policemen are to enforce it. In several cases, the police have not given the offender a chance to dispose of his queue himself, but have snipped off the offending braid with practically no ceremony whatsoever.

The order against foot-binding also states that women under the age of 30 whose feet have been bound must take off the wrappings and allow their feet to develop naturally. This part of the order has been practically disregarded in the country districts.

Blue Uniforms Discarded

Soldiers Of France Will Wear Dust-Colored Outfit

The world's armies are getting back to earth.

A recent French order that artillery men discard their colorful sky-blue uniforms brought the last major military power into the ranks of those whose soldiers wear drab uniforms, a National Geographic Society bulletin said. The new French uniforms will be dust-colored.

Soldiers of the United States wear olive drab uniforms. British, Belgian, Polish and Japanese warriors have khaki uniforms. Germany and Spain supply gray clothing. Switzerland, Italy and the Netherlands have gray-green uniforms.

Reason for the trend away from the brilliant colored uniforms of 100 years ago has been to avoid detection of troops movement by snipers and aeroplanes.

Spain and Japan still retain elaborate and vari-colored full dress uniforms but these never see the mud of front line trenches.

250-LB. MAN LOSES 20 LBS.

And Looks 10 Years Younger

About three months ago," writes a correspondent, "I weighed 250 lbs. I started taking Kruschen Salts, and I lost 20 lbs. in a little over two months. I am now younger than I have ever been. My friends say I look ten years younger, and my step has an elasticity which is amazing. I shall boost Kruschen Salts wherever I go."

Kruschen contains just the six salts, blended in just the right proportion, that are essential to keep you in continual good health. Kruschen Salts keeps the system from encumbering waste matter. Unless this wastare is expelled regularly, it will give rise to rheumatic and other body diseases. And Nature is in no way to blame the desire to get rid of storing this poison-breeding material out of the way in the form of fatty tissue.

never noticed that Red Thom watched Stone carefully from that day. They were intent on their own deductions.

"He's got that Isabella horse so he'll stand," quoth Derwent. "The man's got patience and that's all four acres. He says he ain't breakin' him; he's a-trainin' him. Learned it outen a book, he says. Give him two years under a man and he'll make a good hand."

"If Sam Dustin don't kill him first," said some one.

"He won't . . . There was prophecy in Red Thom's voice. "Where is he now?"

"Crews sent him out to ride the West fence up in the Red Water canyon today. Told him to take his pack and stay there till he got the place fixed. Darned nasty job for one man. If you ask me."

He was right at that. Stone saddled his big horse at dawn and headed west across the foot-hills for the more distant ranges, where the land ran out in craggy little peaks and jutting hill-shoulders. He worked his way up: beyond, where the measure runs out in curly bunch grass, where the red-stemmed madonna gives place to stunted juniper and the red-and-black malpais ledges make horse and man look to their footing.

That fence was a deceptive thing. It wandered for miles along a steep hillside; it stepped drunkenly across deep canyons and arroyos; it twisted among stunted rock-oaks and it dipped into forgotten valleys where aspens yellowed for want of water. He finally drew rein on top of a ridge and studied the land below him.

Red Thom alone at the Hour-glass must not have been surprised at the metamorphosis of the new hand of the Hour-glass. Goss was the slackness of a tired rider. His slim figure settled into his saddle as though melted and poured there. His light hand on the bit told why that Isabella horse, for months rejected by the rough-handed riders at the Hour-glass, had "come to hand" till now because of another motive.

Edith? There was the answer, and Stone felt such a surge of wrath sweep over him at the thought that he felt hot all over. He suddenly visioned Edith, red-lipped, red-headed, gray-eyed, and he knew that any man would take a chance for her. But . . . how could any chance overpower that hatred that he had read in her eyes for Dustin?

In these days men could not compel women to marry them . . . Hold on! What if he could? Then he could have . . . or less, kept the result of age and drink, and his daughter loved him dearly. Could this be a scheme on the part of Dustin to win by craft what he could never get otherwise?

"I believe I've struck it . . ."

He shook himself into life. His big horse, pawing at the ant hill, whinnied as a dozen biting ants ran up on his leg and bit like fire. Then he raised his great head. Stone's eyes followed the horse's gestures and suddenly stood like a man petrified!

Far below him, six hundred yards away among the brush, he saw a half-grown calf dodging among the mesquite clumps and behind him rode with yells and shouting, two men on horses that had been hard-ridden.

"By God! That's pretty bare-faced. They're so all the Hour-glass men are on the east side of the range that they aren't even stickin' to the high brush. Anybody in sight could see 'em. What's that? I must be gettin' blind."

A thin column of white smoke stood up into the air from behind a distant ridge. Suddenly an edging of black smoke showed along the white column.

"Greasewood fire. . . . That's to give quick heat to the irons. God but they're careless! Is that all I must see? . . . Can't be . . ."

But it was! A huge, ill-tempered canvas paulin' atop of small wagon that lurched across the divide. A negro, perched in front, drove it slowly down into the flat and sputtered by the top of the ridge.

"Huh! Leaves his fires burnin' be hind him and follows his wife where they go. Just pickin' up cows where they find 'em. Looks to me like a pretty widespread scheme. All based on the fact that the Hour-glass hasn't got enough men to watch its own ranges. That's bad . . . But that's worse! Changin' brands on Hour-glass calves on Hour-glass land."

"Looks funny Edith didn't tell her father about that cow. Old Carr must be scared of Dustin at the Broken Spur. That looks like . . ."

Thom's eyes bored into Stone's inner consciousness and both men grinned at each other in friendly fashion. In that moment a lasting friendship was born. The bunk-house

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been savagely looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking him out of business."

Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Hour-glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot, in a Montgomery Ward wild-west outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector still now is returning to tell Duro that Spike Goddard, owner of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur must use the Hour-glass ranch and protests against it.

Spike Goddard and Sam Dustin, the old prospector may tell the truth, but that he's seen at the branding of Carr's cattle, he's going to get him to show them the location of the mine and then kill him.

Gerald Keene, dressed in ridiculous cowboy clothes, who accidentally discovered the mine, who was grubstaked by both Carr and the Hour-glass ranch and is hired as a cowboy by Joe Carr. The impersonation of a tenderfoot is successful, and he is accepted by the men, the other occupants of the bunkhouse.

"If he learned that from a catalogues, then I'm a Greaser," he muttered and he laid in wait for Stone when supper was done.

"What's the game?" he asked curtly. There was a grin, too, that kept the words from stinging.

Now Red Thom had almost been born in a saddle. He had punched cattle from El Gran Chaco to the Barron Ground and he was not to be put off.

"I seen you fall," he said grimly. "A green man can't fall like that. It takes practice. A new man falls stiff. You relaxed every muscle an' that's why you didn't break every bone in yo' body. Come clean, son. I'll not give you away less I'll have to."

That is a dangerous question to ask at times but Stone did not resent it.

"I got to spread my own rope my own way," he said, and the homely litanies made Red Thom open his eyes. You don't mind a man intend to do his own business, do ya?"

"Huh, I reckon not. But you see a few of us have spent a long time here on the Hour-glass. You claim to be a new man. All right. Let it go at that. Get me . . ."

Thom's eyes bored into Stone's inner consciousness and both men grinned at each other in friendly fashion. In that moment a lasting friendship was born. The bunk-house

Second Mirror For Telescope

Twenty Tons Of Molten Glass Poured

Record Time

The second 200-inch mirror for the world's greatest telescope, the astronomical eye that will see 1,000 times better than the human eye, has been poured without a single apparent flaw at the Corning glass works.

The time was record-breaking, six hours and 33 minutes, for 20 tons of molten glass, ladled out in 104 huge molds that fairly scorched the faces of spectators and scientists who encircled the great pouring room. The time was nearly twice the speed of pouring the first "eye" last March.

For the first time, it was announced officially the March mirror is a success. This means that the second mirror comes out of the annealer 10 weeks hence in as good shape as now expected, astronomers will have two of these giant mirrors instead of the one originally planned.

They have the money to build only one telescope. The equipment to complete a second would cost something less than the price of one battleship.

In six years or so hence this mirror, or its "spare," the March eye, will be ready to increase man's vision from the present 300,000-000 light years' distance to nearly 1,000,000,000 years. The 200-inch telescope, that is, will see light which started its journey toward the earth 900,000,000 years ago.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

WALLS

Some walls are built without a stone. Or any iron or wood.

Yet stronger they than barriers Which through long years have stood.

A single word can make a wall. A look for fear or hate

Can raise a stubborn barricade Where hope must hesitate.

Grim walls of rock can be torn down, Laid stone by stone aside To leave the view unmarred once more, Horizons blue and wide.

But, ah, beware of walls which rise, Intangible, unseen.

You cannot bring love back again

As though doubt had not been!

It is announced that the Queen and the Duchess of York have acceded to the request of Lord Derby, the president of the British Textile Exhibition, made on behalf of the committee of the exhibition, to name two new colors in which British dress fabrics will be displayed by manufacturers at the textile section of the British Industries Fair in February.

The color to be chosen by the Queen will be named "Jubilee," and that chosen by the Duchess of York will be named "Margaret Rose."

Honey for Gossiping

The Christian Science Monitor says when any bit of gossip was told to Mrs. Hannah More, she would say, "Come we will go and ask if this be true." The gossip-bearer was always so astounded that she would beg to have no further notice taken of the report. But Mrs. More was determined and off she would take the tale-bearer to the one of whom the story was told. No one brought gossip to Mrs. More a second time.

Business Is Profitable

Drugs And Jewels Snuggled Into England By Air

Smuggling of drugs, Paris fashions and jewels into Britain by air has grown to an astonishing scale.

British tariff on silk, expensive dresses, jewelry and drugs make this illicit traffic a highly profitable business.

Thousands of pounds of these articles can be loaded on a single plane.

The traffic in drugs, always difficult to detect, is known to be growing at an even greater rate.

Opium, cocaine, heroin and other narcotics are being peddled in the West End and other cities in quantities far in excess of those shown by the import certificates.

An official at Croydon aerodrome expressed the opinion that this smuggling must be carried out on a very large scale if it is made to pay.

"Most of the large aeroplanes are too well made to make the risk worth while," he said.

"This forces the smuggler to choose some isolated spot off the usual air routes.

"Only the cleverest organisation and the close co-operation of paid accomplices with high-powered cars could make such a task practicable."

Clock Will Speak Time

Experiments Being Made In England With New Gadget

A clock that talks! Not the common variety, but a clock which will "speak" the time.

This promises to be the latest timepiece in the office. The British post office research station are experimenting with an apparatus which will put "pip" into clocks.

By placing a special number on the office clock will "speak" the time.

"Then will follow 'pip' at 10 seconds intervals, except at 30 seconds past each minute, when there will be the announcement, for example, 'On the third 'pip' it will be exactly 7:45'."

The last of three high-pitched signals will indicate then the exact minute.

An Unusual Book

The summer exhibit on the second floor of the Boston Atheneum contains a book bound in the skin of its author, a notorious highwayman. The book was published in 1837 and is titled "Narrative of the Life of James Allen, alias George Walton, Being His Deathbed Confession to the Warden of Massachusetts State Prison."

Little Helps For This Week

"Whom having not seen ye yet, in whom though now ye see Him not, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory." 1 Peter 1:8.

"If ye love me, let commandments." John 14:15.

Blest be Thy love dear Lord,

That taught me this sweet way,

Only to love Thee for Thyself,

And for that love of Thee.

To love God is to love His character. God is Purity, and to be pure in thought and look to turn away from hollowed books and conversation, to abhor the moments in which we have not been pure, is to love God. God is Love; and to love men until it has expanded into a philanthropy which embraces all, even enemies with compassion, that is to love God. God is Truth, and to be true, to hate every form of falsehood, to live a brave, upright life, that is to love God. God is Infinite, and we love himlessness, reaching on from grace to grace, adding faith to charity, aiming innately to be perfect, even as the Father is perfect, that is to love God.—F. W. Robertson.

German Engineer Receives Permission From French Air Ministry

The French Air Ministry has authorized Gerhard Zucker, German engineer, to test a device for shooting mail by rocket across the English Channel. A mailbag is to be attached to the rocket, containing 12,000 letters. It will be shot from Dover over the Channel to Calais, on the French coast, twenty-five miles distant. The rocket contains an explosive liquid ignited electrically. After a fixed number of minutes a parachute opens, allowing the mailbag to float to earth.

Opium Smuggled In Fish

A unique method of smuggling dope was uncovered in China when a Chinese buying provisions for a wedding feast, was refused purchase of an especially large fish in the markets. He reported to police, who watched the dealer refuse to sell the fish to all except a man with a basket full. On investigation, the fish was found to contain many tins of opium.

AND STILL THEY COME!

The following by E.J.S., a white-mail writer to the Cranbrook Courier, is copied, in the hope that civilized persons in our community of Blairmore may study same—and it is surely time they did:

"The administration of civic affairs at Blairmore is in the hands of the 'reds,' and these 'lucy's' are sure exercising their full authority up to the hilt. This element controls the town council and also the school board. November 7th was the 17th anniversary of the Russian revolution. 'Hail, Lenin,' says the school board in effect, and declared the day a school holiday, possibly the only place on British soil where such a thing ever happened. Then again, running true to form, just last week when a school holiday was declared on account of the royal wedding, the Blairmore school board refused to fall in line with the rest of the country, and there was school that day. And yet, all said, it is a local matter for Blairmore. As has been pointed out, if its citizens want to elect school boards in sympathy with the Russian system, perhaps they consider it just their own affair. But it does seem strange of people of a town lending support to a foreign inspired organization, the creed of whose objective is the overthrow of the constitution of the country in which they are making their living."

The Gaelic language comes in handy in case you want to give someone a dirty dig. Back at Halifax the other day the mayor criticised the work of a cartoonist on one of the papers published there as being "silly and insane." To this the cartoonist came back with: "Thalla agus suida air ta-cad!" Then the mayor called some Gaelic interpreters to his aid to find out what it all meant. It didn't take the linguists long to decipher the retort. It simply said, "Go sit on a peacock." —Ex.

Dear Mr. Bartlett—On behalf of the Community Hall committee, we express our appreciation for the publicity given to the appearance here of the Scottish Musical Players.

This hall was taken over by a citizens' committee from the United Mine Workers of America to provide an auditorium for large gatherings, and for the use of young people's organizations, such as basketball and badminton clubs and other organizations who may require its use. It is also used by Coleman Miners Association for their meetings.

It is not operated for profit, but with the intention of earning sufficient revenue to pay the operating expenses, a small group of citizens pledging their credit so that the hall was made available for public use.

The profits of the Scottish Players' presentation went towards the operating expenses, and we appreciate your co-operation in helping through The Enterprise, to make known throughout the district their appearance here, the attendance being most gratifying.

Yours very truly,

HOCKEY QUALIFICATIONS

"The Colemanians are asking for senior rating this year with a view to getting into Allan cup play-downs. We cannot understand why the A.H.A. refused them senior entry last year when undoubtedly they were the best hockey unit in the province. The class of senior hockey last season was certainly very mediocre and we are positive the Coleman team, Western Canada intermediate titlists, would have been worthy Allan cup contenders. Here's hoping the Canadas will be granted the privilege to compete this year."—Lethbridge Herald.

We'll admit Alberta senior hockey wasn't up to scratch last season, but Coleman Canadians did not actually prove their superiority over any senior club. Regarding Allan cup aspirations, we have come to the conclusion that a small-town club only needs from $15,000 to $20,000 to win the coveted mug.

Of course, it is possible that Coleman Canadians may be able to do what Luscar Indians accomplished—win the intermediate championship of Alberta one year and capture the senior title the following season.

Both Alberta senior finalists last year—Luscar and Drumheller—were handicapped to a large extent by injuries to players at the very time a clean bill of health was essential.

Personally, we think the Lethbridge writer is much too enthusiastic in his praise of the south country team. We unhesitatingly assert that the Edmonton E.A.C. juniors were Alberta's No. 1 squad last season, an argument which is enhanced by the fact that two of the squad—the Colville brothers—are playing amateur (?) hockey in New York, and other three of the Western Canadian champs—Morey Rimstad, Bill Carse and Andy Maloney—have turned professional.—Drumheller Mail.

THIRD BASEMAN TAKES

"EM ON THE WING"

Walking along Hanna's "main drag" on Wednesday, Clarence Blaney, peppery third baseman of the local nine, must have been lost in a train of thought connected with league games and sunny days on the diamond. Suddenly an object came hurtling straight at him with lightning-like speed. Instinctively he drew up his left mitt to take the catch, as usual. Imagine his surprise when he found he had picked up a live, plump Hungarian partridge in full flight through the town. —Hanna Herald.

RURAL PHONE COMPANIES

In view of the fact that certain parts of this telephone district are at present attempting to organize in rural ownership groups, the procedure in other areas of the province may be of interest. Near Macleod a unit is in process of formation. In the proposed area to be covered there are 1310 poles and 20,500 pounds of monthly wire. The sale price, including equipment for twenty-five subscribers will be set by the Dominion Railway Board at $785.00. There will be a switching charge of 65 cents per subscriber per month to connect with exchanges, etc., high enough to cover current upkeep and a flat charge of 12 pds per month, paid to provide a reserve for emergencies. It is understood that this is carry the privately owned line to the telephone exchange. It is proposed to divide ownership of the system into 25 shares of $32.00 each with $8.00 of this payable at once and the balance in two yearly installments. There were further estimates outlined, the possible cost in maintenance, sinking fund, collections, etc. The rural rate is set by the Dominion Railway Board at Ottawa was given as $1.85 per month.

In connection with the formation of the companies to set a rental sufficient to cover current upkeep and to provide a reserve for emergencies. It is understood that this is a point which the prospective local companies are keeping in view. There is plenty of evidence in recent weeks to show how easily and suddenly rural service may be interrupted and to show also that the cost of reinstatement might be considerable.

It would no doubt be easier to add to the membership and to the attractiveness of the proposition if monthly charges for maintenance were cut to the bone. But this would not ensure continued success or satisfaction. It is much more difficult to raise charges after a period of operation, than to set an initial figure adequate to care for all reasonable emergencies.

This seems to be the opinion of farmers interested in the local problem of ownership, and it is to be hoped that when the unit ownership is instituted locally it will be on a solid basis, which will provide for permanent service and good repair.—Vulcan Advocate.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the home and shoe repair shop of Mr. Kostecky early Saturday morning. One of the worst windstorms in weeks was at its height when the fire started,通知 the town of the fire. Had it not been for the heroic efforts of Mr. Gibson and Vincent Cherbo, who are both visitors in town, the damage to surrounding property would have undoubtedly been serious. Mr. and Mrs. Blake, living next door, were forced to move their belongings into the street, as it was thought their home would be destroyed.

The Heart Of Man

The season is at hand when once again the age-old song recorded in Holy Writ "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men" will be sung by millions of voices and the sentiment expressed in the words will be made the theme of countless sermons, addresses, and written articles—of which this is one. And the question will be asked by a perplexed people, asked in their bewilderment and sorrow, why is it that after the passage of nearly 2,000 years, instead of peace on earth and goodwill among and toward men, the world is filled with rumors of and preparation for war, and suspicions and hatreds are rife among people everywhere?

In seeking an answer to this question innumerable replies and reasons will be given. Many will lay the chief responsibility upon politicians; others will blame the inhumanity and selfishness of the makers of armaments; a goodly number will declare it is the existing economic system that is the root of the trouble; in a word, the tendency will be, as it has been throughout the years of the past, to apportion the blame to others and to institutions of our own making, but never to accept any share of it as our own responsibility. Yet, in the final analysis, the responsibility lies at our own door and rests with us as individuals.

A nation is but an organization of individuals, and the national viewpoint is but the aggregate of the viewpoint of the people who constitute the nation; the national spirit is the spirit of the people themselves. Politicians do what the people want them to do, and statesmen are forced to act, frequently in the field of their own better judgment, because their people insist upon certain action and will not tolerate anything else.

Nations, too, tend to remain in a warlike mood because the individuals who constitute the nations are themselves lacking in goodwill the one toward the other, and lacking goodwill—which is the only source of peace—there can be no peace.

Individuals clamor for security in their homes and occupations; nations as organizations of individuals demand security; but there can be no security either for the nation or the individual unless there be peace at home and abroad. Nevertheless, as individuals, in our own local communities, and in our relationships to each other, mankind is unmindful of these great truths, and to a great extent maintains attitudes of suspicion and hostility instead of seeking for understanding and goodwill.

The world, and each and every community throughout the world, counts its men and women who, in the current language of the day, are chiselers, seeking to better themselves at the expense of others, trying to pull others down in order that they may rise, desirous of taking that which others have in order that they may possess it. Many debtors are harsh, un sympathetic and unyielding in their attitude towards debtors in great difficulty through no fault of their own and insist on their pound of flesh even though it means the ruin and destruction of the debtor; on the other hand, many debtors dishonestly seek to take, full advantage of a difficult situation to cheat and defraud those whom they had asked to assist them in the past, and who did assist them. And demagogues, both of the Right and the Left, of both high and low degree, take full advantage of each difficulty to fan the flames of discord and arouse and intensify feelings of enmity and prevent reasonable co-operation in the promotion of goodwill leading to peace and mutually beneficial compromise agreements.

The result is that all parties are invoking the power of the law to enforce their demands. As individuals they demand that force be applied as they would have it applied. The next step, of course, is that as nations, groups and denominations the same law of force be applied against other national groups. And that means preparation for applying such force, and war as the only alternative.

The answer to the question propounded above is that the heart of man is weak. Man has not yet risen high enough in education to the point where peace on earth and goodwill among men is natural and truly desired. Mankind still prefers to live and rule by force, still prefers to act on the theory, it is not a principle—that Might is Right. Once man as an individual changes his viewpoint he will find politicians both ready and anxious to help him to do it; and individuals will find themselves without an occupation, freed of all the restrictions and obligations imposed by individual and corporate selflessness and the evils of narrow nationalism, the economic system will operate successfully.

The bringing of peace on earth and goodwill toward men is not a matter of theory, but of fact. If for some reason man cannot become it is the only way it can come, through change in the hearts of men. It will be a slow growth, a development to which every true lover of peace and every believer in the power of goodwill is called upon to lend his or her example and influence. Railing at others will achieve little; peace must be lived and genuinely practiced.

Gasoline From Lignite

University of Minnesota Scientists Are Carrying On Experiments

Two University of Minnesota scientists, successful already in developing cellulose, a principal ingredient of rayon, from the aspen tree, speculated on the possibility of making gasoline from lignite.

The two, Professor Lloyd H. Ryerson and Ralph E. Brewer, hunting new materials and new uses for old ones with the co-operation of the Northwest Research foundation, were heartened by the success of German scientists in making gasoline from brown coal. Lignite, they pointed out, is similar in composition to Germany's brown coal.

Success of experiments in making gasoline from lignite would create an outlet for vast deposits of the low grade coal which underlies prairies of North and South Dakota and eastern Montana. Geologists have estimated their total at 1,000,000,000,000 tons.

New Kind Of Concrete

Discovered When Workman Fried Meat On Waste Slate

A workman in a slate quarry in North Wales found himself without a frying pan when he wanted to cook his ham-and-egg dinner.

So he used a piece of waste slate instead. Then he left it on the fire and forgot about it.

As a result, a new kind of economical lightweight concrete has been discovered.

The piece of slate expanded in the heat. When it is broken it can be used with cement to make a light form of concrete, such as is used in partitions and house walls.

"Its moisture expansion is much lower than that of the usual materials," an official of the department of building research said.

"It is easily nailed, and is an excellent key for plaster work."

British Couple Start On Romantic Quest In India

A British couple, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. R. Lorimer, have arrived in Britain, the capital of India, from Northern Europe on one of the most romantic quests in the world. They hope,

The Burushash, who number about 20,000, are a clan of apparently Persian or Afghan origin. They live on both sides of the Hunza River, which divides the State of Hunza from that of Nagar, in a region of wild and almost inaccessible mountains.

For generations they were the terror of the trading caravans between Chinese Turkistan and Kashmire.

Her Lucky Day

A very recent bride who was chin-hunting in one of the big stores the other day was puzzled to find that one of the finest of all the sets in the place had been marked down to half its original selling price, and when she inquired why, the salesgirl told her it was because the store was closing out all German goods.

At this—the bride, who is more than a little sympathetic with the boycott, looked over the set pretty carefully, and then ordered it sent to her apartment. Every piece was stamped "Bohemian"—The New Yorker.

(Editor's Note: This series of articles is attracting wide interest. Many readers have written to the author, asking for a personal analysis of their own writing. The author again invites readers to consult him and you will find details of his work in the following article.)

Miss S., writes: "I am 18 years of age, and in love with a man of 39. My parents do not like me having a boyfriend, and he does not like me, and yet he wants to marry me. What would you advise?"

I believe you would be doing a very foolish thing if you marry him. S. S. Her writing tells me that he is very set in his ways, is used to having his own way, and domineers over others. And he is selfish to the core.

You, on the other hand, have a variable nature. Sometimes, you are cautious, whilst at other times you are apt to be impulsive. There is a good deal of indecision in your nature. You find it difficult to make up your mind definitely on any point.

You are young and some of your best years lie ahead of you. Do not make a hasty, ill-considered step at this stage of your life.

On general principles, I am opposed to a young girl of your age marrying so much older than herself. I know of cases where such marriages have gone on the rocks. Of course, there are cases where happiness prevails, but they are rare.

The odds are against happiness in marriages between April and September, to write figuratively. A man of 39 is, more or less, mature in his ways, and a girl of 18 is, in most cases, at least on the threshold of life. And imagine, when you are but 30, your husband would be over 50.

"School-teacher", writes: I am discontented with the life of a country school-teacher. I get terribly paid with it, and dread the thought of continuing it for years to come. I have a proposal of marriage from a young farmer. He is not very well off, and, as far as his wife is concerned, I am a stranger. I like him quite a lot, and am wondering if marriage to him would not be a good idea for my present discontent. Should I accept his proposal?

I sympathize with your position, Miss School-teacher, but am afraid you may only be jumping from the frying pan into the fire. You are of average intelligence, and routine and routine or the humdrum is very irksome to you.

You do not say that you love your employer, but I fear you might be tempted to say "go ahead" for he has a likable sort of nature, and is sincere and anxious to make a good wife.

But it would not be fair to him to marry him at present, feeling the way you do. Strive for some outside interest, apart from your school work. Develop your talents for the amateur theatrical club, or if there is none in your town, organize one, and I think you will find that work an outlet for your talent and also zest for variety.

You may find in the course of time that you love your friend enough to make sacrifices for him, and then when you are married, you will be able to develop your outside interests that your nature demands.

Your handwriting tells the true story of your character, without trifles. And you can find out what your friends are really like—whether they are good, bad, useful or undesirable. Send specimens of the writing you wish to be analysed—as long as possible, please—and enclose 10c coin for each specimen. Send care of Lawrence Hibbert, care of Winnipeg Telegram, 175 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters will be answered as quickly as possible, but please allow at least two weeks for your reply. All letters are confidential.

YUGO-SLAV ARMY MAKES INVASION INTO HUNGARY

Szeged, Hungary.—A Serbian contingent of the Yugoslav army crossed the frontier into Hungary, challenged a weaker border force to combat, and precipitated a situation fraught with peril.

The invasion was the result of the order of Yugoslavia expelling 27,000 Hungarians from the country and was one of a series of incidents resulting from the October 9 assassination of King Alexander.

The Serb troop crossed into Hungarian soil three miles from here in the early morning hours. Only the greatest disciplinary actions of the part of the Hungarian officers prevented the outbreak of fighting. The situation was most tense and future trouble was feared.

The Yugoslav soldiers shouted threats and curses across the line at the Hungarians, and thousands of those affected by the expulsion order continued to pass into Hungary.

This town and others near it were choked with the refugees. More thousands were on their way as fierce indignation prevailed against Yugoslavia in the frontier villages, where it was recognized the Yugoslav forces are far too superior to combat.

Earlier there had been reported a general belief that the Yugoslav troops would attack this town and to the indignation was added a note of terror.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia.—Yugoslavia made ready to expel all the 27,000 Hungarians living within her borders but denied indignantly reports from Hungary that those expelled were subjected to hardships. It was estimated 2,000 have been expelled so far.

A foreign office spokesman, meanwhile, scoffed at rumors the two nations had broken off diplomatic relations as a result of the crisis in their relations, tense since Yugoslavia charged Hungary with "complicity" in the assassination of her King, Alexander, at Marseilles, Oct. 9.

As hundreds of Hungarians, ordered out of the Slav kingdom, streamed across the border, the government gave as its official explanation of their expulsion the fact the 27,000 had lived 16 years in Yugoslavia without forewarning their allegiance to Hungary.

Boat Trapped In Ice

Crew Of Hudson's Bay Co. Schooner Waiting For Rescue Plane

Edmonton.—Midway between Copernicus and Aklavik on the Arctic coast, the Hudson's Bay Co. diesel-powered schooner Margaret A. is trapped in the ice in Letty Harbor and its crew of half a dozen men have been held prisoners since October, according to word brought here by northerners.

The ship is believed to be well stocked with provisions and except for the long wait for a rescue plane the men are suffering little discomfort. An aeroplane will take off as soon as flying conditions permit from Cameron Bay to bring in the captain and engineer, but some of the crew will be left in charge of the craft.

Alberta Legislature

Indicated Last Session Before Election Will Be Held In February

Calgary.—The Alberta legislature, it was indicated here, will be convened, for the last session before elections, some time during the first week of February.

Hon. J. F. Lynam, attorney-general, in Calgary on government business said he expected the session to start "about the same time as last year." Last year it opened February 8.

E.P. Ranch Wins Award

Herd Of Shorthorn Cattle Captures Seven Prizes At Chicago

Chicago.—A herd of five Scotch shorthorn cattle entered in the International Livestock Exposition by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales won a total of seven awards, it was announced.

W. E. Carlisle, manager of the royal E.P. ranch at High River, Alberta, was presented with the ribbons, which included one first, three second and two fifth places. Carlisle admitted that he had hoped to collect more blue ribbons at the international.

The failure of the prince's herd to repeat its success of 1925 when his prize bull was named senior champion might be laid at the feet of Thomas E. Wilson, veteran Chicago packer, whose entries nosed the prince's cattle out of first place in two divisions in which the E.P. entries finished second.

The Prince of Wales won the following awards: First get of sire, second senior yearling bull, second bull calf, and second showing of two bulls, third showing of three bulls, and fifth two-year-old heifer and fifth senior yearling heifer.

The Canadian entries will be returned to the E.P. ranch after the exposition, Mr. Carlisle announced. They will not be sold here as will many of the cattle entered in the show.

The selection of Peter J. Lux of Shelbyville, Ind., as the world's corn king placed him in the class with Herman Trele of Wembley, Alta., who was barred from competition in the wheat class until 1936 because he won the crown three years in succession.

Lux, four times the corn king of the exposition, cannot enter that class again for three years.

Farm Livestock In Canada

More Cattle And Sheep This Year But Fewer Horses

Ottawa.—Canada had fewer horses and more cattle on the farms this year than last, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. There were more sheep and fewer swine.

By provinces, horse show decreases in all except Nova Scotia where a slight increase is shown.

Total cattle have declined in all the provinces, with the exception of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Sheep have increased in all the western provinces. Swine have decreased everywhere except in Quebec, where an increase is indicated.

Total poultry show increase in Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, and decreases in Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba.

New Serum Discovered

Kills Cancer Cells But Is Only In Experimental Stage

London.—Discovery of a serum which kills cancer cells after they have been removed from the human body, and does no injury to healthy human tissue so removed, was announced by Dr. Thomas Lumaden, director of the London cancer research laboratories.

The scientists, emphasizing strongly that the serum "is only in the experimental stage and has not reached the point where it can be tried on human beings," nevertheless said a stage had been reached in which the serum will kill cancer cells removed from the human body without damage to normal cells similarly treated.

It was disclosed the submitted names were very satisfactory and a strong board could be selected which would effectively represent Canada both from a geographical and industrial standpoint.

Two of the directors will represent the primary industries, two the commercial and manufacturing industries and the remaining three the other occupations.

Valera Gains Six Seats

But Still Lacks Clear Majority In Upper House

Dublin.—President Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party gained six seats in the Irish Free State senatorial elections, but failed to gain a clear majority in the upper house, which has continued under majority of the opposition since the Republicans came to power in the Free State.

The results made the standing in the new senate as follows: United Ireland party (opposition) 30; Fianna Fail (government) 19; Labor, seven, and Independent, four. In the last chamber the U.I.P. had 36 members, the Fianna Fail 13, others 11.

The senate consists of 60 members, one-third of whom retire every three years. Elections are not on a recall basis, the seats being filled by elections at which electors are the members of both houses voting on a proportional representation basis.

Want Federal Loan

Alberta Needs Money To Enable Province To Carry On

Ottawa.—Premier R. G. Reid of Alberta, accompanied by Hon. George Headley, his minister of agriculture, presented to Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes a request for a Dominion government loan to the province of a sum considerably in excess of $1,000,000, to enable that province to satisfactorily settle its immediate monetary requirements.

While no official decision was possible pending a meeting of the cabinet, it was understood the provincial ministers were satisfied their wishes would be met in one form or another.

FRANCE WILL SEND NO TROOPS INTO SAAR AREA

Geneva.—France has said flatly she will send no troops into the Saar basin—and Great Britain promised to help police the territory during the forthcoming plebiscite if Germany is willing.

Thus, with spectacular suddenness the League of Nations council found an apparent solution of the problem that had brought it into extraordinary session, that of maintaining peace in the little European "border box" that votes Jan. 13 to rejoin Germany, join France or remain under the league.

If German agents—and Geneva waited anxiously to hear from Berlin—an international army will march into the Saar before the plebiscite to assure "fair and free" balloting.

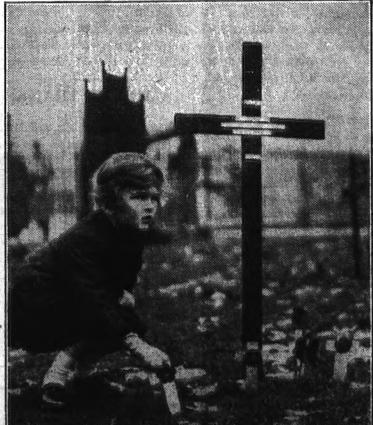

But the French troops, long held ready to move into the Saar, should Nazis attempt to seize it by force, will stay at home.

Through Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, France made her astounding renunciation of the right to send troops into the Saar.

"We cannot participate in an international force," Laval said, "because Germany cannot participate."

Anthony Eden, lord privy seal of Great Britain, in an address that set Geneva a-buzz with comment, proposed an international army be despatched to the basin before the plebiscite.

SCORES VICTORY

Trade Treaty With U.S.

Premier Bennett Says He Is Willing To Negotiate Agreement

Brockville, Ont.—A declaration that he was willing to conclude a trade agreement with the United States on fair and just terms was made here by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

He asserted with emphasis the government would "take such action as it was competent to take" when it received the report of the commission on price spreads and mass buying.

He stated the "much despised legislation" conferring upon the government extraordinary powers for peace, order and good government had become "the salvation of the newspaper print industry."

And he also insisted that if the establishment of a central bank had been left to the Liberals such a institution would never have been created.

The prime minister addressed a large meeting—in the theatre—at Brockville, Ont., following the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Liberal-Conservative Association, at which he was a guest speaker earlier in the day. His speech, brief but forcible, was suggestive of an election utterance. He defended the record of his administration with particular reference to its trade policy, and attacked the Liberals on a number of counts.

School Reforms

Ontario Teacher Favors Intelligence Tests Instead Of Examinations

Toronto.—B. A. C. Ketchum, head master of Trinity College school, proposed a university board to control matriculation examinations in every county of Canada, it was announced by Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes. The legislation which has now been effective in the prairie provinces since Sept. 1, in Ontario and Quebec since Oct. 1, and the rest of Canada since Nov. 1, is being utilized by applicants to an appropriate extent.

To date, 900 applications have actually been received at Ottawa, and it is estimated that throughout Canada, more than 3,000 applications have been filed.

Thus far, 900 applications have actually been received at Ottawa, and it is estimated that throughout Canada, more than 3,000 applications have been filed.

SIXTY-SIX ARE EXECUTED BY FIRING SQUAD

Moscow.—Sixty-six persons were executed by firing squad after conviction on charges of "preparing terrorist plots against high Soviet officials."

The executions, after summary trials at Leningrad and Moscow, followed the assassination of Sergei Mironovitch Kirov, one of the highest placed Soviet officials, by 30-year-old Leonid Vasilievich Nikolayev.

Thirty-seven were executed at Leningrad and 29 at Moscow.

In all, 39 persons were tried at Leningrad and 32 at Moscow. Two were remanded for further inquiry in Leningrad and three remanded in the capital.

The brief, almost laconic official communiqué described the accused as being aliens for the most part who had entered the Soviet Union via Poland, Latvia and Finland.

In conformity with the decree issued just after Kirov's death, the men were denied the right of appeal and jury hearings.

The supreme court, military division, heard the cases. Executions were carried out almost immediately after sentence was passed.

The sentence included confiscation of all property of the condemned man by the state.

The executions coincided with the cremation of Kirov's body in preparation for the state funeral. The ashes of the revered Communist leader will be borne to famed Red Square by Joseph Stalin, Kirov, Voroshilov and other Soviet Communists and Communist chieftains.

The ashwill be placed in the Communists' valhalla beside the Kremlin wall where the remains of Nicola Lenin, John Reed and other heroes of the Red revolution rest.

RED TERROR SAID TO BE RUNNING RIOT IN RUSSIA

London.—A Warsaw despatch to the Express said Red terror ran riot in Russia with more than 200 persons, including women and children, summarily shot within the last few hours.

The despatch said the sound of shooting was heard every few minutes in the law courts and that among those executed was the assassin, Leonid Nicolaiev, who slew the Communist leader, Sergei Kirov, Nicolaiev's wife, sons, two daughters and an 85-year-old mother.

Fourteen officials of the Moscow OGPU, the union state political administration, also were executed according to the Warsaw report.

Joseph Stalin was reported ruthlessly purging the country because of the slaying of Kirov. Having discovered a serious split in the ranks of the OGPU, the dismissed Chief Yagoda and ordered widespread arrests and executions and called in the Red army to protect himself and the government.

Finding dissatisfaction in the Leningrad OGPU, he sent members of the Moscow OGPU to arrest the communists in Leningrad, the despatch said, sent out troops to rush the OGPU building with machine guns and hand grenades and arrested the entire staff. It was said 10 members of the OGPU were killed in the fighting.

Learning of the incidents, Stalin lost all confidence in the OGPU, the despatch said, and ordered the arrest of 14 members of the Moscow group, who were promptly shot.

The execution of all persons connected with arrested OGPU chiefs then began, the despatch said, continuing that Stalin now trusts the Red army alone and that since his return to Moscow for Kirov's funeral the city has become a vast camp of soldiers rushed by special train from all parts of the country.

Place 1934 Wheat Crop At 250,465,600 Bushels

Winnipeg.—Based on actual threshing returns the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association issued a statement estimating the Western Canadian wheat crop for 1934 at 250,465,600 bushels.

Previously the Dominion bureau of statistics had placed the estimate at 263,000,000 bushels, made prior to collection of threshing returns.

Ninety-six per cent of the country points in Western Canada made reports for the estimate.

Credit For Reichsbank

Berlin.—The Bank of England has extended to the German Reichsbank a one-year credit amounting to £750,000 (about $3,750,000), it was announced by the German central bank. This credit will be placed in the special account created by virtue of the recent Anglo-German trade compensation agreement, and £400,000 (about $2,000,000) of the total will be used to pay British creditors.

Farmer Is Robbed

Montreal.—An iron safe belonging to a farmer on Cote De Lisse road, the eastern outskirts of the city was carried away and $2,000 in cash and $70,000 worth of bonds removed from it.

The poor Blairmore school children used up all their permissible holidays in celebrating the anniversary of the Russian Revolution, a week or so ago. So they had to go to school on Thursday when British royalty was married. Edmonton was unable to observe the Royal wedding with a holiday, but generally through the province, Nov. 29, has been celebrated by schools.—High River Times.

I would suggest to School Boards that they instruct teachers in primary grades to teach their charges the nature of an oath, as defined by the Criminal Code of Canada before they start on the alphabet. It is apparently not sufficient to teach a child that it shall go to hell if it tells a lie after kissing the Bible, but it must also be taught that it will be in danger of a far worse penalty—if a person in jail—if it commits perjury.—My Column in the New Review, Drumheller.
